1	I have just joined the EQA scheme a few days before the last circulation closed.	11/9/2016 8:53 AM
2	I didn't know there was one.	11/4/2016 6:19 PM
3	I might have done long ago but more recently link didn't work. The computers at work (NHS) are obsolete and cannot access everything plus you have to remember which browser might work which web site. And one of the two browsers will not be available from Jan so we will be very cut off.	11/4/2016 3:21 PM
4	Looking up cases after the round and recently primary use of digital slides for reporting.	11/4/2016 2:49 PM

1	On the main page, too much space is taken up by a description of the scheme, when most people will want to go straight to current round forms. Suggest shortening the description and put any additional details under one of the collapsible tabs. With the current design, you have to scroll to the bottom, find the current round tab, then click it.	11/6/2016 1:16 AM

1	I have tried but the quality of digital images is poor. Just look at Johns Hopkins website and compare with their quality. The present quality is not good for diagnosis. Also Our department needs to provide us with better computers if we want to move forwards into the digital world	11/10/2016 7:45 AM
2	Mostly useful if slides have had to be forwarded but need reveiw before the reutrn and when I have some time to do it.	11/7/2016 11:50 AM

1	Could be more user friendly.	11/16/2016 6:58 PM
2	Nil	11/16/2016 7:05 AM
3	The digital slides cannot replace the real thing... at least on my computer. I often have to modify/change my response when I see the real thing.	11/15/2016 12:45 PM
4	Good to have return forms as individual emails can get lost in the morass of communications we receive these days.	11/7/2016 11:50 AM
5	Overall a good website. Although digital slides are clear, I still prefer glass slides.	11/7/2016 9:34 AM
6	Excellent site and extremely useful for educational purposes if an incorrect diagnosis is made. Note: the resolution of the digital images does not match the glass slides, so I'll continue to need both for now.	11/4/2016 5:36 PM
7	Compatibility with some browsers is an issue. The submission of answers could be done on the website (like breast EQA)	11/4/2016 3:22 PM
8	Please make response forms usable by Mac computer software.	11/4/2016 2:34 PM
