

Miles Scott – Chief Executive

Miles joined the Trust on 8th January 2018. Miles has over 30 years' experience in the NHS encompassing acute, community and mental health services, the Department of Health and the King's Fund.

Most recently, he has worked at a national level with NHS Improvement, focusing on its establishment as a new national organisation and leading the national Ambulance Improvement Programme with NHS England.

He was previously Chief Executive of St George's University Hospitals Foundation Trust from 2011 to 2016 and prior to that Chief Executive at Bradford Teaching Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust (2005 to 2011) and Harrogate and District NHS Foundation Trust (2001-2005).

Miles is married to Abbie and has two children aged 12 and 13. He is a keen runner and most recently completed the Cologne marathon in October.

Ever the optimist, he is an Arsenal FC fan but also equally enjoys theatre. He lives in south west London with his family
